

March 17, 2020

Instructions for tonight's class

Hello Everyone,

OK people, just so everyone is on the same page for tonight's class, I've taken the liberty to sketch out a rough outline of what you should be doing. So here you go:

1) First click on the link for the reading "Democracy and a Free Press" by Croteau and Hoynes and read through this article.

2) Next, click on the link for "Lecture Presentation" near the top of the section and watch the lecture.

3) Finally, click on the link to the documentary video on Youtube, "Manufacturing Consent: Noam Chomsky and the Media." Since this video is 2 hours and 47 minutes long, you can watch part now and save the other part for next week's discussion on bureaucracy.

If anyone has any questions, just send me an email. Keep working hard on those research papers. When and how they will be turned in will be announced at a later date.

Cheers!
Kropf