Study and discussion questions:

1. How has politics been affected by the expansion of force, through technological change, and its dispersion?
2. How has world politics been affected by changes in capitalism?
3. Is there any plausible sense in which progress has taken place in international relations, and if so, is this progress due to intellectual or moral advances in human thinking?
4. What is the impact on world politics of the increasing diversity and complexity of social structures in the most powerful societies of the world?
5. What are the implications of electronic technologies, especially of the Internet, for world politics?
6. What modes of action can effectively cope with the unprecedented stress that human beings are imposing on the global environment?
7. Briefly describe Walt's "5 Big Questions" about contemporary world politics. Of the five, which one do you think is most important and how would you answer it?
8. Explain what Chipaike means by African agency in international relations. Why does he believe this agency is left out of most contemporary Western explanations of I.R.?
9. Daniel Drezner wants to know where all the big international relations theories gone. Good question. Where do you suppose they've gone?
