

Instructions for Lecture Seven

Good evening Everyone!

Made it to our last “ism”! This is the one that seems to be growing in people’s consciousness, sometimes positively, sometimes negatively – but the end of the Cold War apparently didn’t end people’s curiosity about the man, or the theories about human nature he inspired, as many thought at the time. We should therefore take a look at this other critique of liberal philosophy, and question how and to what degree it will affect future politics. Next week it’s back to science, to get a view from someone greatly admired by Marx, Charles Darwin.

Lecture 7. Marxism.

Task 1: Read these instructions.

Task 2: Read Heineman, Chapter 5 (pp. 55-64); and Stevenson, Chapter 9 (pp. 187-204).

Task 3: Watch the lecture presentation “Marxism.” Is it what you thought it was?

Task 4: Read the article for your journal response. You can find the question on the link titled “Lecture / Discussion Page” highlighted in yellow. After completing the response, you will have until the date posted on the assignments page to upload it to Canvas.

Task 5: Open the link for the video and watch Marx Reloaded. Still can’t believe I was able to find this on YouTube. Very interesting film, I think you’ll like the questions it raises, even if you disagree with the answers.

Task 6: Click the link titled “Discussion Board Question and Peer Responses for Video Presentation” and answer the question that I have posted in approximately one paragraph or two. Wait for other students to put their responses and then pick two students to respond to. The deadline for these responses will be posted on the Canvas assignments page. Don’t be late....

Well folks we are moving along very nicely. Getting closer and closer to the research paper turn in, so let’s start getting any questions you might have out front, so you can start really hammering it.

See you on next time!

Kropf
