

Instructions for Lecture Fourteen

All righty People!

So, next to economic policy, foreign policy (given our relative military power in the world) has got to come in as a close second in terms of importance (even though Americans typically ignore this policy unless there's a crisis). We should give it a good, critical look this week. Lots of stuff to read, watch, and discuss. Our focus will be a hard examination of the role the military-industrial complex plays in the formation of foreign policy. To the extent they do, you'll probably see why this is not such a great idea. Here's your breakdown:

Lecture 14. U.S. Foreign Policy

Task 1: Read these instructions.

Task 2: Read Chapter 15 in the Heineman text (pp. 314-334)

Task 3: Watch the lecture presentation for "U.S. Foreign Policy." You must be getting tired of me droning on....I feel your pain.

Task 4: Read the article for your journal response. You can find the question on the link titled "Lecture / Discussion Page" highlighted in yellow. After completing the response, you will have until the date posted on the assignments page to upload it to Canvas.

Task 5: Open the link for the video and watch.

Task 6: Go to our Canvas page and click the link titled "Discussion Board for Lecture Fourteen" and answer the question that I have posted in approximately one to two-paragraphs. Wait for other students to put their responses and then pick two students to respond to. The deadline for these responses will be posted on the Canvas assignments page. Don't be late....

So listen people, I'm super proud of everyone for hanging in there. It's been a tough semester, lots of reading and writing but we are almost finished.

Take a breath, enjoy your weekend and let's get ready do our last lecture next week and then our final wrap up...until then...

Later folks,

Kropf
