

Instructions for Lecture Ten

My People,

Why the exclamation point? It's not in the textbook. But it should be! Of all the ideologies we've examined to this point this one seems to have embedded within it the most exciting possibilities for the future. I should add that most anarchists are very uncomfortable describing anarchism as an "ideology." They (we?) describe it as set of ideas as opposed to an ideology. As the old anarchist saying goes: "Do you have ideas, or do ideas have you"? The last 5,000 years of human existence have been defined by hierarchy. How's that working for us? Social breakdown, environmental catastrophe, nuclear Armageddon. Maybe it's time to try something different. Let's see. Here are your lovingly prepared tasks:

Lecture 10. Anarchism!

Task 1: Read these instructions (the time has come)

Task 2: Read Hoffman and Graham, Chapter 11, pp. 237 – 257.

Task 3: Click the link on my website or the Canvas "Modules" page titled "Lecture Ten Presentation" and watch the lecture for this evening. (I will try to keep the excitement muted)

Task 4: Read the article for your journal response. You can find the question on the link titled "Lecture / Discussion Page" highlighted in yellow. After completing the response, you will have until the date posted on the assignments page to upload it to Canvas.

Task 5: Open the link for the video and watch.

Task 6: On the Canvas "Modules" page down to the link titled "Discussion Board: Lecture Ten." Then answer the question that I have posted in approximately one to two paragraphs or so. Wait for other students to put their responses and then pick two students to respond to. The deadline for these responses will be posted on the Canvas assignments page. Don't be late....

Paper's due next Monday people. I hate to end this week's discussion with a demand but, GET THAT PAPER IN OR ELSE.

Yours in solidarity,

Kropf
